Strawberry Festivals From Bellevue's Past

June is strawberry season! With the Eastside Heritage Center's 2010 Strawberry Festival right around the corner, here's a look back at some of the original Festivals from the Eastside's past.

From the Lake Washington Reflector, June 20, 1925:

"The following poem was found written on the table covering of one of the tables at the Strawberry Festival. It was evidently left as a token of appreciation of Bellevue's hospitality.

We have wandered from the city
In search of a new thrill.
We found a place so pretty
That we stuck around until
We filled up on Strawberries,
Shortcake and lovely cream
The berries red as cherries,
The shortcake just a dream.
It was the town of Bellevue,
A little rustic place
Where all this classy food grew
To feed our hungry face.
We thank thee little township,
We liked your Festival.

When'er we make a short trip,
Upon you we will call.
-Gloria Nourse, Seattle"

From the Eastside Journal, June 28, 1928:

"Escorted by two highway patrolmen, with their shrieking sirens, one hundred and fifty Kirkland autos caravanned their way to the Strawberry Festival last Saturday night. As the caravan approached Bellevue everyone started blowing their horns, both on the cars and the especially provided ones, creating such a din that it drew nearly everyone from the festival grounds to witness the entry of the Kirkland delegation. (...) The entire delegation, consisting of over four hundred people, each regaled in festal hats and Kirkland streamers, marched single file into the grounds, amid the applause of the Bellevuites."

From the Eastside Journal, June 20, 1929:

"There are a number of strawberry festivals held each year in various parts of the county, but none has caught the public eye as has the Bellevue Festival and there is a reason for that. Bellevue, with the cooperation of the entire East Side puts some real effort into their festival and makes an outstanding event of it. Not only are our guests served with luscious shortcakes but a continuous entertainment is provided for their amusement. Every effort is made to make them feel at home.

- Bill Burch, Manager."

An Eastside Woman's Pioneering Achievements

Based on a story and research by Deann Alford, an independent journalist.

Elizabeth Everts "Betty" Greene was born in 1920 in Seattle and grew up on the shores of Lake Washington in Medina.

As a member of the Women Airforce Service Pilots (WASP) of World War II, Greene, along with 1,100 other women, took on non-combat flying duties that often were hazardous, freeing up male pilots for combat. As the first pilot for Mission Aviation Fellowship, Betty became the first woman to fly across the Andes and the first woman to pilot an aircraft in Sudan. But Greene wasn't one to talk about her pioneering achievements.

She wasn't looking for publicity, and the last thing she wanted to do was brag about any of it. Had it not been for Greene's parents sharing her exploits with the rest of the family, not even her closest kin might have known much about her work.

"I never got the feeling that any of the Greene siblings ever thought anything they did was heroic," said Naraelle Hohensee, Greene's grand-niece who represented her great aunt in March at a Capitol Hill ceremony that honored WASPs with a Congressional Gold Medal.

Hohensee found that attitude of humble sacrifice common among her great-grandparents' children and the women of their generation receiving the honors.

"I got the feeling it didn't faze the women who actually did it. They didn't realize they were doing anything out of the ordinary," Hohensee said. "They just did what they loved. I think Aunt Betty felt the same way."

Greene died April 10, 1997, of Alzheimer's at her home in Medina. She was 77.

Betty Greene's fascination with becoming a pilot began in childhood. At age 8 she saw Charles Lindberg, the first pilot to cross the Atlantic Ocean solo, when he flew his Spirit of St. Louis aircraft over the Above: Betty Greene as a Women Airforce Service Pilot.

University of Washington stadium and later addressed the audience.

Greene used a relative's $100 gift for her 16th birthday to buy flying lessons and flew solo two weeks later, but the money ran out before she could get her private pilot's license.

In 1941, while attending the University of Washington, a pilot training course accepted her as one of three women in the class of 40 students. The military had no openings for women pilots, so she finished her degree in sociology, specializing in world cultures.

Prior to graduating, she read an article about a non-combat women's pilot group formed to serve the military during World War II. Its purpose was to relieve male pilots from non-combat duties. Her parents urged her to apply.

At age 22, Betty Greene was accepted into the all-volunteer Women's Flying Training Detachment, which later was called the Women Airforce Service Pilots, or WASPs. She was assigned to class 43-W-5 that trained at Avenger Field in Sweetwater, Texas, 40 miles west of Abilene. Each woman in this class of 130 earned $150 a month; from it was deducted $1.65 per day room and board, and $100 for a uniform, cap, goggles, jacket and parachute.

While training at Avenger Field for the WASP program, Greene, a devout Presbyterian, wrote a pair of articles about how flying could advance Christian ministry. Three American military pilots responded by sharing with her their vision for creating the Christian Airmen's Missionary Fellowship.

After word came that WASPs would disband in December 1944, Greene moved to California to set up an office for the fledgling group. It eventually connected with combat pilots of like vision in the UK, Australia and New Zealand to become Mission Aviation Fellowship.

Greene flew MAF's first flight, on a 1938 Waco biplane that the aviation ministry bought for $5,000, into southern Mexico. In addition to Peru and Sudan, Greene piloted MAF aircraft while based in Nigeria and New Guinea.

Hohensee thinks her Aunt Betty would have shared the attitude of the WASP program's 112 pilots who attended the ceremony in Washington, DC. "The women are happy to be honored, but they weren't exulting in the honor," Hohensee said. "She probably would have said the real glory was in her mission work."

Editor's Note:

2010 marks the Centennial of Women's Suffrage in Washington State. EHC is taking the opportunity to honor women in history through our programming, exhibits and newsletter articles this year.

Education Happenings

Education Coordinator

Each year Bellevue Parks and Community Services sponsors Natural Resource Week at the Mercer Slough Nature Park in Bellevue. The goal of NRW is to help educate tomorrow's leaders to appreciate, conserve and wisely manage our precious natural resources. The program is offered to 4th, 5th and 6th graders.

The Natural Resource Week program has been a part of the Parks program for a number of years. In 2005, Eastside Heritage Center was asked to add the history piece to the program.

This year's event was held May 18, 20 and 21. Eastside Heritage Center was one of twelve organizations that contributed their time and talent to make this event possible, including Nature Vision, EPA Dive Team, King County Noxious Weeds, Woodland Park Zoo, Mountains to Sound, Cascade Land Conservancy, Eastside Audubon, Puget Sound Energy, Sarvey, Master Naturalist and City of Bellevue Environment Education.

EHC's role this year was to showcase the history in and around the historic Winters House. There were 36 tours given over three days, with 12 tours each day – six in the morning and six in the afternoon.

EHC tour guides John Stokes, Kim Radcliffe, Barb Williams and Jane Morton gave each group a 30-minute tour through the house and the Ostbo loop. The rhododendrons were especially beautiful during this week in May and helped the students develop a better understanding of past agriculture uses of Mercer Slough.

Welcome

Eastside Heritage Center is proud to welcome Brian Casserly and Jan Van Blaricom to the Board of Trustees.

Brian Casserly has lived in the Pacific Northwest since 1993 and earned his Bachelor's, Master's and Ph.D. degrees in history from the University of Washington. He has taught history at the University of Washington and at North Seattle, Bellevue, Everett and Shoreline Community Colleges.

Brian has also worked as a researcher on various projects related to Asian American, labor, and Pacific Northwest history for several organizations, including the National Park Service and the Museum of History and Industry. He also served as a historical consultant to KCTS TV's The War: Stories from the

FRASER CABIN HERITAGE DAYS

Dates & Times: Saturdays, June 19, July 17, Aug 21, Sep 18
11:00 AM - 3:00 PM

Location: Kelsey Creek Farm Park, Bellevue

Another season of Fraser Cabin activities returns! The log cabin experience is magical and will transport you back in time. Visitors are invited to participate in hands-on activities that relate to 1880s settler life: agriculture, dairy, household tasks, log cabins, games and Eastside history. All activities are located at the historic 1888 Fraser Cabin at Kelsey Creek Farm Park. Eastside Heritage Center staff and volunteers present the activities and interpret the log cabin that was built and lived in by the Fraser family over 100 years ago!

Presented by the Eastside Heritage Center, in partnership with Bellevue Parks & Community Services.

BLUEBERRIES OF MERCER SLOUGH

Dates & Time: Saturday, August 14
1:00 PM - 2:00 PM

Location: Overlake Blueberry Farm
(2380 Bellevue Way SE, Bellevue)

Registration: Pre-registration required.
Call Bellevue Parks at 425-452-6885
Reference Class # 48793

Cost: $5.00

Go behind the scenes at Mercer Slough's beloved blueberry farm. Explore the farm, learn how it came to be and how we grow such tasty berries today. EHC Archivist Megan Carlisle and Education Coordinator Jane Morton will also share the history of blueberries in Bellevue. Optional U-pick to follow program (for an additional fee). All children under 12 must be accompanied by an adult. Presented by Bellevue Parks & Community Services.

HERITAGE SERIES

Change Over Time: The Lowering of Lake Washington

Date & Time: Thursday, September 16, 7:00 PM

Location: Winters House (2102 Bellevue Way SE, Bellevue)

What happened to the Eastside when the Lake Washington Ship Canal was completed, and the water level dropped by nine feet? Find out how the changing shoreline affected businesses and residents from Kirkland to Renton. EHC Archivist Megan Carlisle presents this program based upon research she collected while developing a 7th-grade Geography unit for the Bellevue School District.

Presented by the Eastside Heritage Center, in partnership with Bellevue Parks & Community Services.

CROSSROADS FARMERS MARKET

Dates & Times: Tuesdays, through October 5
12:00 PM - 6:30 PM

Location: Crossroads Bellevue Shopping Center
Rear Parking Lot
(NE 8th St. & 156th Ave. NE, Bellevue)

Eastside Heritage Center is a non-profit partner of the Crossroads Farmers Market this year. Visit the Market on Tuesdays for fresh Washington produce, flowers, music and connections to organizations that make this a great neighborhood. Live music fills the air on each Market day, and there are also contests, recipes and more all season long. EHC is on-site all through June and then once a month until October. Hope to see you there!

Registration: Redmond Historical Society
425-885-2919 or info@redmondhistoricalsociety.org
An $8 fee helps fund RHS research.

If you live in Redmond, you probably drive along Leary Way daily. But do you know the histories of our oldest buildings? Like, which one was both an undertaker's premises and a bordello? Tom Hitzroth will educate and entertain folks with walking tours that explore those histories.

Presented by the Redmond Historical Society.

In Memoriam

Eastside Heritage Center fondly remembers two longtime members, dedicated volunteers and Winters House Hosts.

Norman Blye

Norman Blye passed away on May 22, 2010. Norm was born in a house on Main St. in Bellevue in 1918. He attended Bellevue and Leschi Grade Schools and graduated from Garfield High School in 1937. Norm met the love of his life, Esther Carlson, at the Trianon Ballroom in Seattle. In his oral history, Norm recalls: "During WWII when I was single, I liked to go there and meet girls. So, anyway, I was there one night and I saw this cute little blond who was just the right height for a short person like me. I was impressed with her posture. I thought, "Gee, she's sure square shouldered and cute. So I asked her to dance and I was hoping she could dance well. I found out that she had taken dance lessons and she was a dancer. (...) I said, "Would you like a ride home. We could stop and have some dessert and coffee." "Well", she said, "I'll ask my girl friend." So she asked (...) and then said, "That would be wonderful." Norm and Esther were happily married for 66 years. Norm worked in the trucking business most of his life. In retirement he became a "Ferry Historian", as he had grown up riding the ferries on Lake Washington. Together Norm and Esther gave presentations of "Ferry Tales of Lake Washington" to many organizations around the county.

Paul Vander Hoek

Often called the 'Mayor of Main Street', Paul T. Vander Hoek played a pioneering role in Bellevue's growth from isolated village to major city. He died April 21, 2010 at age 94. When his father built a home near Factoria in the 1930s, Paul recalled that it took him almost all day to get there from Ballard. The trip included a streetcar to downtown Seattle, cable car to Leschi and ferry to Medina, followed by a 10-mile hike. Paul was born in Elk, Washington, grew up in Spokane and moved to Ballard as a teenager, before coming to Bellevue. Paul's father started Eastside Glass Company in 1945, which Paul joined a year later and soon took over. Located on Main Street in the heart of Old Bellevue, the store grew during the next four decades and spawned today's Vander Hoek Corporation which operates a number of businesses. Paul was a founder and past president of both the Bellevue Chamber of Commerce and the Bellevue Downtown Association. For much of his career, he was one of Bellevue's most involved citizen participants in city planning. He cared deeply about his community and was seldom shy about expressing his views. While not always successful in gaining agreement, he engendered broad respect for his passion and diligence. Paul and his wife Reda were married for 70 years before her death in 2007.

Bunch, Shelton honored with AKCHO awards

The work of the Eastside Heritage Center was recognized twice by the Association of King County Historical Organizations (AKCHO) during their 2010 Annual Awards.

Board member Justin Bunch was honored with the AKCHO Youth Award, which is presented to a King County student (K-12) who has made an outstanding contribution to the heritage community with service or through a project that has benefited the community at large.

During his three years as a board member, Justin has been an active part of the organization and has been a consistent contributor to discussions on everything from policy to program development.

He's often one of the first to step up and help out with EHC's programs and events, including the Strawberry Festival and the Fraser Cabin Heritage Days at Kelsey Creek Park.

"Justin is always first on the volunteer list and is a 100 percent participant," wrote Karen Klett, EHC's volunteer coordinator, in his nomination. "Children love having older students to look up to, both to answer their questions and give instructions. Justin has a special gift in relating to them."

Justin is a senior at Bellevue's International School and plans to study foreign relations with the goal of becoming a diplomat.

Patty Shelton of the Bellevue School District received the Heritage Education Award for her work with EHC on developing local history curriculum. The award honors a King County teacher or an organization who has promoted King County heritage by the innovative incorporation of local history into the curriculum and/or through a project that involves students with the heritage community.

Over the past four years, Patty partnered with EHC to initiate and write two successful 4Culture grants in order to develop the curriculum. She worked with archivist Megan Carlisle to make sure that the primary sources selected for the curriculum activities were grade appropriate and the activities challenging.

The results were Strawberry Fields Forever, which involves analyzing primary source documents to identify Bellevue's response to social and economic changes from the 1930s-1990s; and Change Over Time: The Lowering of Lake Washington, which focuses on how the construction of the Lake Washington Ship Canal and the subsequent lowering of Lake Washington impacted the residents and geography of the Central Puget Sound region.

Congratulations, Justin and Patty!

Here they are, the newest Winters House Hosts! These great folks give tours on various days and come from various backgrounds.

Joe Chambley has lived in Bellevue for 15 years and enjoys learning about the history of the city as well as individual stories of early settlers.

Barb & Steve Williams have long been associated with Eastside

Heritage Center. Barb has recently retired as Education Co-coordinator, and still helps with collections. Steve recently retired from King County Parks and gives talks and tours, as well as doing research for EHC.

We are so pleased to have these new volunteers, and greatly appreciate all our Winters House Hosts. Don't we have a great team? Want to join?
